

CHAPTER 1

THE BEGINNING

*In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And God said, let there be light, and there was light.
(Genesis 1:1-3)*

Roots of the mystery

In order to overstand<sup>1</sup> the reason why babylon is working her work, we have to go back in history, ages before Nimrod and his wife Semirames<sup>2</sup> founded babylon. Babylon is one of the main channels through which the mystery of iniquity works. In this chapter we'll go to the roots of this mystery. We'll find out why this mystery exists. And in order to find the roots, we must go back in time. Ages before the Great Flood, and even ages before the creation of man (Adam). We have to go back to the time between the first two verses of the Bible. After God created the earth and the heavens, and before the earth was without form and void. In principal, this time can be years and years longer than the time between the 3rd verse until now.

Traditional error

The traditional Christian view on creation is that God created the heaven and the earth "in the beginning", which is placed around 5000 or 6000 BC, in a state described as "without form and void, with darkness on the face of the deep". For the last centuries, this has been taught time and time again in the churches and the sunday-schools. But there's something wrong with this interpretation. Something, which can seriously prevent one from being able to lift the veil that covers the mystery on the origin of babylon.

<sup>1</sup> In accordance with a good Rastafarian tradition, the word "understand" signifies a position of inferiority to a certain subject, so the word "overstand" is more appropriate.

A babylonian Christianity

Even though the Bible is clear about “mystery babylon”, and uncovers her whole scheme, she (babylon) has remained a mystery within Christianity for centuries. Such a great mystery, that her mere existence isn’t even discerned. With the inevitable consequence that some people who do see babylon think that the Bible, and the faith in Yesus Kristus (Christianity) with it, is itself a babylonian concept. For they see what seems to be Christianity, and in it the babylonian “signature”<sup>3</sup> so to speak. And indeed, there is a form of “Christianity” which can be seen as a part of babylon and her wicked intentions. The Rastafarians sing about the “S.S. Jesus”, which was the name of a slave ship. Many Africans, who were “exported” to the American continent, had their first encounter with this Name when they found out the name of the ship that brought them into captivity and slavery. It’s obvious, that this “Jesus” can never be the Divine Lord and Saviour from the Bible Who came to die for the sins of the world and to bring freedom, love and peace to us all, sons and daughters of Adam. Some Christians claim that these things were “from the past” and that hypocrite individuals committed them. But it goes beyond that. As we will see in this book, babylon has her own form of “Christianity” which seamlessly blends into all her other religions and schemes.<sup>4</sup> It’s not always easy to discern this form, when you don’t know where and how to look. Babylon is always trying to hide herself, that she might not be exposed. A wrong translation of the Bible is

<sup>3</sup> As we will see when the book goes on, one of the key-methods of discovering babylon’s influence throughout history is reading the symbolic language. The workers of the “mystery of iniquity” are obsessed with symbols and rituals, and by studying these one can identify babylonian influences. I call this the “babylonian signature”. This same babylonian signature can be seen in what some might identify as Christianity.

<sup>4</sup> Many non-Christian researchers of the “mystery of iniquity” have come to the conclusion, that the Bible and Christianity are also part of this plan. Analysis of their research material and conclusions clearly shows, that they speak about an existing form of Christianity that most certainly does not fit the biblical description.

one of her methods and it starts with the very first lines in scripture. And when it comes to unfolding the mystery that is the subject of this book, it is rather amazing to conclude how many scriptures, when viewed in their original languages (mainly Hebrew and Greek), show to have been wrongly translated. This may partly be because of ignorance of the translators, but it is more likely that someone is trying to hide something.

Genesis 1:2 Revisited

Let's get back to Genesis 1:1,2 and compare the English translation of the King James Version (KJV)<sup>5</sup> with the original, for they are not really saying the same thing. Here's how it is written in the KJV:

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.
And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. (Genesis 1:1-2)

The word "was" in the 2nd verse would better have been translated with "became". The earth became "tohuw va bohuw", which means as much as "waste and empty". Now it might be interesting to know, that the ancient babylonians knew this state also. According to their creation myth, the earth was filled with chaos, represented by the god Tiamat, or the great serpent (picture). Tiamat was said to be dwelling in the see (the deep!) together with another demon, called Bahu. It's easy to see the similarity between Bahu and bohuw, but scholars also see a similarity between Tiamat and the word tohuw. The word that is translated with “created” is the word “bara”. Bara means as much as “to create out of nothing”. In the next chapter we will see why it’s important to remember this word (bara) as well. Now, if we would translate the first two sentences from the Bible a bit more correctly than the translators of the King James Version, it would then read:

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth out of nothing. And the earth became waste and empty, and darkness was upon the face of the deep.

So, what does this all mean? The first sentence is quite obvious. In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth. The beginning of what? The beginning of time, and space<sup>6</sup>. Then something happened which caused the earth to get into a state of chaos. But in spite of what the usual interpretations says, God did not create the earth in this state.

No void creation

There are more places in the Bible where you can find information concerning this particular situation. First, I’ll quote the ancient prophet IsaJah.

For thus saith the LORD that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the LORD; and there is none else. (IsaJah 45:18)

I emphasized some key words in this scripture. When you check back in the original language, you will find that the same words that the KJV translates as “without form and void” are used here as well. It is in this scripture, that Jah clearly states, that it was not Him Who created anything in this situation. He created the earth to be inhabited, but something caused a situation called “waste and empty”, which made it quite impossible to live in. God says:

<sup>6</sup> Without time and space, our three-dimensional or physical realm would never have been able to exist.

“I did not create the earth waste and empty, I created it habitated<sup>7</sup>”

An eye-witness account

Now, the Bible even speaks about the reason that caused this situation. There is a report about it. Another prophet of ancient times, the man called Jeremiah, wrote about a vision he received. The situation described in Genesis 1:2 is the same situation as Jeremiah witnessed in a vision. Jah has showed him what happened. Let’s take a look at this eyewitness account of the situation of the earth before Adam and Eve were created:

I beheld the earth, and, lo, it was without form, and void; and the heavens, and they had no light. I beheld the mountains, and, lo, they trembled, and all the hills moved lightly. I beheld, and, lo, there was no man, and all the birds of the heavens were fled. I beheld, and, lo, the fruitful place was a wilderness, and all the cities thereof were broken down at the presence of the LORD, and by his fierce anger. For thus hath the LORD said, The whole land shall be desolate; yet will I not make a full end. (Jeremiah 4:23-27)

No Adams

This report of Jah vision starts off with describing the very same situation we know from the first lines of the Bible. It’s worth to note the phrase “there was no man”. It says: “there were no Adams”. Still, we can see that there were cities. This means, that the destroyed cities were not build by “Adams”, since the earth hasn’t been “waste and empty” after Adam’s creation. Not even during Noah’s flood, for there were “Adams” in the Ark. The whole idea <sup>7</sup> As you can read a bit further on in this chapter, the Bible speaks about the joy of the angelic beings when the earth was created. This would be an indication that the earth was created to be inhabited by these beings.

---

behind Noah's flood has everything to do with sustaining the human race, as we will see in a later chapter. And please also note, that neither Adam nor Eve built any city in the Garden of Eden. After they were exiled from Eden, their offspring made cities.

Re-creation

Everything was good, but something provoked the anger of the Most High. Fierce judgement over the earth, causing the state we know as "waste and empty", of which Jah says: "I won't make a full end". And that's where the story of the "re-creation" rather than "creation" starts, in Genesis 1:3, when Jah says: "Let There Be Light!" And there was light...

Bible reveals what babylon hides

But first there's more to know about the early beginnings, because the Bible also tells us why it was, that Jah poured out this judgement over the land. Again, the ancient prophets of Israel show that they were thoroughly informed by the Most High God. Babylon tries to hide her true origins for the eyes of many people through mistranslations and manipulations, but Jah revealed her past, present and future almost in detail. And He has preserved this knowledge in the same Bible that many disregard as another babylonian tool. But in fact, the Bible is a major tool to expose "mystery babylon". That's why she puts so many arrows on her bow to aim at this book. Trying to corrupt, mis-translate, and keep it away from the public eye all the time. This is well documented in history, but we see it until today, even in an increasing manner.

Summary

Before we continue, please remember at least the following from what you just read: the earth wasn't created a few days before Adam; it has existed for only Jah knows how long, and it had cities, a clean environment, it even was a "fruitful place". There were, what we call, civilizations, and Jah's anger was provoked by them.

"lucifer"

What caused Jah to be so angry? Personally, I think this is closely connected with what is called "the fall of "lucifer"". The Bible tells us the story of a perfect being, created to be a “covering cherub”<sup>8</sup>. In the KJV, his name was “lucifer”. He had a very high position in ancient times, and was able to travel between the “stones of fire” which some bible-scholars identify as the planetary bodies (Mars, Jupiter, et cetera). It seems like he was some kind of “president” in an ancient inter-planetary civilization. A civilization, which existed in perfect harmony with it’s Creator, YHWH, and also reflected His Glory.

Ancient prediction for today

Again, the Old Testament prophets have been given insight from the Most High into this matter. There is nothing hidden, which will not be revealed. The prophets carefully wrote down what they saw, even though they didn’t overstand everything they saw. But they knew, that for later generations, many things would be seen and overstood:

But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased (Daniel 12:4)

Self-made serpent god

There are words in the book of the Old Testament which are directed straight to this being we know as “the serpent” or satan. And not only we know him as such, the ancient world is literally scattered with “serpent gods”. Today we would call them “reptillians”. The picture on your left side is just an example. It comes from an ancient south-american civilization where there are many legends about a winged fiery serpent god named Quetzalcoatl. According to the bible, the

<sup>8</sup> A Cherub is an angelic being. The Ark of the Covenant, which was created by Moses after an instruction from God, has two statues of Cherubim. In the Bible they are portrayed also as beings with multiple aspects on their bodies, such as wings, different parts of animals, and some humanoid facets.

serpent or satan is the leader of all those who are against God. But he wasn't created this way. It was his own choice to become what he has become. Here are some words spoken by the Most High unto this being.

"How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! [how] art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations! For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north: I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the most High. Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit. They that see thee shall narrowly look upon thee, [and] consider thee, [saying, Is] this the man that made the earth to tremble, that did shake kingdoms;" (IsaJah 14:12-16)

“lucifer” and babylon

This is only a part of the things that “lucifer” gets to hear. Also, the connection with babylon starts to come to the surface here. The Most High addresses satan in a prophesy which was primarily directed at... the king of babylon. Jah addresses the king of babylon and in it, He starts to speak out words against the serpent as well. That is not only an indication, but also a direct scriptural verification of the connection between the ruler(s) of babylon and “lucifer” himself. It's crucial knowledge, that the physical rulers of babylon are spiritually connected with “lucifer”, a being of which you can read in IsaJah 14 that he wanted to become equal to God, the Most High. By the way, the word “lucifer” is not a proper translation. However, secret societies such as the Freemasons secretly call their “Master Builder of the Universe” by that name. And that's only one example. Many more like to call him by this name, but it is more or less a fictional name. The translators of the Bible simply picked the ancient name of a planetary body. The word used for “lucifer” comes from the same root as the “Halal” which we know from “HalleluJah”. It means something like “shining one”. So when I use it, please regard that I'm not seriously thinking that this being once had that name. He is called “son of the morning”.

Ancient entity

As you know, the morning is when the day starts. The title “son of the morning” refers to this creature as one of the first. The first what? The first created beings. He was right there, in the beginning. And as we shall see while this book unfolds many hidden aspects of “mystery babylon”, he will be there right at the end of time. This person was initially a high-ranking figure in a civilization, which existed long before Adam. The book of Job, of which some claim that it is the oldest book from the entire Bible, speaks about the start of creation and the presence of the “morning stars”. Read what Jah (The Most High) said to Job:

"Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding. Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? or who hath stretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? or who laid the corner stone thereof; When the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy?" (Job 38:4-7)

Fallen morning star

Note the last sentence, which makes it clear that the “Morning Stars” as well as all the “sons of God” were there when the planetary bodies were created. They sang songs of praises, while another group called the “sons of God” shouted for joy. Above the Morning Stars, only God is. He is the Most High, the Lord of lords<sup>9</sup>. And that was exactly the fact that “lucifer” wanted to change. It made him become “satan”, which means as much as “enemy”. And Jah’s enemy he surely is! If you check back at the part of IsaJah which was quoted, you will see that he is doomed to fall unto such a great extent that people will shake their head when they see him. “Is this the man who shook the kingdoms and the earth?”, they will ask themselves. His power, which still seems to be of very great volume, will not last for all eternity. The time will come in which people will only remember his power as something that is totally downstroyed. But that time is not yet.

<sup>9</sup> One of God’s titles is “Lord of lords”, or “Lord of hosts”. This refers directly to the existence of an angelic hierarchy whose function is to maintain creation.

Phoenician connection with “lucifer”

Not only IsaJah and Job have provided us with information concerning the major enemy of the Most High, there are numerous references to this being. But we stay with those parts in which this being is directly addressed and another one that I would like to share is a part from the book of the prophet Ezekiel. In a prophecy which was directly primarily to the “King of Tyrus”, Jah also starts to speak out against “lucifer”. Tyrus was a phoenician city and it means “Rock”. The Phoenicians played a key-role as keepers of the mystery of iniquity throughout world history, as we will see in this book. Phoenician artefacts have been found all over the world and the babylonian elite of the present world uses much Phoenician symbolism too. So it is not for nothing, that Jah speaks out to satan through the babylonian and phoenician kings. Now, let’s take a look at this ancient prophecy:

"Thou hast been in Eden the garden of God; every precious stone [was] thy covering, the sardius, topaz, and the diamond, the beryl, the onyx, and the jasper, the sapphire, the emerald, and the carbuncle, and gold: the workmanship of thy tabrets and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created. Thou [art] the anointed cherub that covereth; and I have set thee [so]: thou wast upon the holy mountain of God; thou hast walked up and down in the midst of the stones of fire. Thou [wast] perfect in thy ways from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee. By the multitude of thy merchandise they have filled the midst of thee with violence, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as profane out of the mountain of God: and I will destroy thee, O covering cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire. Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I will cast thee to the ground, I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee." (Ezekiel 28:13-17)

A first Eden?

In this scripture, we will find the deeper meaning of the saying "the lust for money is the root of all evil" as well as more information concerning the origin of satan. Information which points out to the fact that he once was a very high ranking figure in the hierarchy of God. He was in Eden. This could mean two things: the first one is that he was in Eden to tempt Eve, as we shall see later in this book. The other thing could be, that he was also in Eden before his fall, which would then be an indication that there was a Garden of Eden even before the one Adam was placed in. The part in which I quote Jeremiah describing the situation of Genesis 1:2 seems to indicate that even before God re-created earth and placed a garden in Eden, there was a "fruitful place". Could this be a first Eden? Or was the whole earth a fruitful place in the days that "lucifer" ran things? It's not really necessary to know in the context of this book, but it could be an interesting topic of research.

Decision maker and space traveller

Anyway, "lucifer" wasn't only in Eden. He had his own position in what is known as "the holy mountain of God". This is the place where decisions are made when the spiritual rulers come together to discuss matters. And not only was he a part of this "Angelic Council", he was also able to "walk up and down the stones of fire". A closer look to this particular scripture leads me to the impression, that these "stones of fire" were the planetary bodies, like Mars and Jupiter. It could most certainly explain the faces on Mars and other structures seemingly found on this other planet. And it would also explain some seemingly "mysterious" Bible scriptures, but more on that later.

Fallen, not created

He was "perfect, until iniquity was found" in him. This sentence terminates all speculations that God created satan as an evil being. I hear it many times, that people tell me they cannot accept the idea that God created the devil and therefore there is no such “thing” as a God or devil. Well, this scripture shows, that God did not create satan. He created “lucifer”, a perfect being with loads of power, with the ability to trade, to travel even in space, to be in the congregation of the highest possible authority, just under the Lord Himself. His garments reflected the glory of God. He had his say when important decisions were made on the “Mountain of God”.

Interplanetary Business Man

As we could read in IsaJah, satan fell because he was not satisfied with his position. He was placed in the top, Gods Council, but that wasn't enough. In this part from the book of Ezekiel, we can also see what caused him to become unsatisfied. Ezekiel seems to indicate, that he was involved in trading.<sup>10</sup> The word translated with merchandise was “rakullah” and points out to trade and traffic related to trade. He was an “interplanetary business man” and it was his success in this activity that made him become violent, and eventually so arrogant and ambitious that he wanted to rise above the Most High. A reflection of this can be seen when we take a look at babylon that has the same characteristics as her father, satan: keyword capitalism and globalism.

“The root of all evil”

Those who study and oppose globalisation, know that the main reason for troubles in the world can be found in a network of multi-nationals and banking systems that kind of rule the world with seemingly just one aim: to make more and more money. Some of the richest people in the world have the money to feed complete nations, they can spend what they have in a thousand lifetimes and still have more then they need. To keep up appearances, they donate a few million or even billion dollars to “good causes”, but the global situation remains, no even gets worse and worse. When all the assets of the world would be distributed in a fair way, everyone on the face of the earth could have a good life. There is enough

<sup>10</sup> Details concerning the trading activities in the “pre-Adamite” civilization are not easily to find. But in order to keep a society going, trading is necessary, so it shouldn't really come as a surprise when the Bible does make a specific mention about the existance of trade in ancient societies.

food, there are enough materials, but still most of the people on the face of the earth suffer from poverty and hunger. If you think that God can't exist because of all the trouble in the world, think again. The Creator has provided this earth with the natural resources to make a good life possible for all living creatures. Jah is not to blame, that's for sure. History reveals that out of the western world there is an elite pulling all the strings, with a lineage straight back to the ancient days of Nimrod and Semirames. In order to build "the great cities of babylon", millions of people were killed and enslaved while complete countries were robbed from their natural resources. Why is Africa considered a "poor continent"? When you take a look, you'll see that Africa is not poor, but it's riches and assets are in the hands of a few, all the profits go to the western world. We have a situation in which people in "poor" countries work 12 hours a day for a salary that is not worthy to be called salary. Even children are forced to work to feed the greedy needs of western "civilization". Education isn't provided. The products these people create are shipped to the west, where they're sold for prices that reach the sky. Only a few actually profit from this, where the multitude is kept in slavery to maintain the status quo. It's not for nothing that the Bible calls "the lust for money" the "root of all evil". There's nothing wrong in trading, but unfair trading is the root of all evil. It's the root of evil in our present world where a global elite keeps the majority of people in slavery, and it was the root of the evil, the iniquity, that eventually led to satan's fall from his position long before the creation of Adam.

Roots and fruits of monopolism

Ezekiel wrote God's words to satan. His "merchandise", his "lust for money" led to violence and finally to the sinful ambition to become like God, which in it's turn led to satan's fall. The same thing you see with the capitalist elite that runs the world. They have all the money, there is no need whatsoever for them to trade any further. But they keep expanding their positions until gradually the whole earth becomes the sole property of one multi-national. And that's where greed leads to. Again, there's nothing wrong in making money. But there is something wrong in making much more money than you actually need. Because, when you reach a position in which you can buy everything you want, every day, for many lifetimes, and still have money left, you've cultivated an uncontrollable lust for: control. Paradoxes, yes? But it is true. It shows, that those "controllers" are in fact themselves controlled. They can't control their lust for control, but something, or rather, someone else is. Ultimate greed leads to lust for ultimate power. This happened to "lucifer". He traded and traded; his greed became violent, and ultimately led him to a decision to revolt against the Most High, the Creator of all. And he's using this same temptation to get people working for his plan, the "mystery of iniquity".

Stepping stones to the fall

The ultimate goal of satan is to re-gain the position he once had, and to rise above the Most High too . But had his time, in the civilizations long before Adam was created, long before Genesis 1:3. We see how he was placed in high-ranking positions; he had trading activities, which made him even more powerful. He began to look for monopolism, which is the reason behind violence in capitalism in our world too. After he gained this, or after he filled "his civilization" with violence, he then wanted to rise above the Most High. And in fact, he still wants it. That's why it's so important to know about the origin of satan, when it comes to unveiling the mystery that is called babylon. Because he makes excessive use of his own "life experience" so to speak.

Ancient artefacts

Now, how did this interplanetary civilization look like during the reign of "lucifer"? There isn't much knowledge concerning this "pre-Adamite civilization". So much will be speculation. But as we could read, there were many similarities with our world. There were cities, a fruitful place, trading, et cetera. And so we shouldn't be surprised, that there are some indications leading towards the existence of ancient civilizations on earth dating back over to 10,000 years ago. All over the world, there are legends about civilizations that pre-date man. We just have to remember "Atlantis", or "Mu": names given to ancient civilizations on continents that are now under water. People like Erich von Daniken<sup>11</sup> and others have pointed out again and again that there are many things in history that according to traditional teaching shouldn't be there. Now, let's take a look at some "mysteries of the past", which could or could not be pre-Adamite of origin. But if they are not, the pre-Adamites definitely had an influence as we will see further on in this book.

Nazca lines

In Peru, South America, there's a big mountain where there are giant "lines" built (according to local history) by an ancient civilization called the Nazca. These lines only make sense when you fly over them, as they turn out to be giant pictures when viewed from a higher position. They form pictures of a spider, monkey or a mockingbird (picture). Other lines, of considerable length, are like big roads because they start and end suddenly. The term for these works of arts is geoglyphs. Some miles away, there's even what seems to be a big "road sign" on another mountain, where a giant three-armed "arrow" (picture) is showing the way to what we know as the Nazca Lines. Although

<sup>11</sup> Erich von Daniken is a Swiss dentist, who has written a number of books in which he proposes the theory, that the ancient gods were in fact intelligent beings from a different planet. His books are interesting for a number of reasons, the most important one is that von Daniken gives many examples pointing out to the existence of ancient hi-tech civilizations. But his reasoning as to why these beings have to be ET's are definitely not as strong as the various things he points out to in his books and films.

the giant pictures of animals are spectacular and tickles the minds of many speculators, the straight lines (picture) form a greater mystery. They have a much less esthetic function. According to Erich von Daniken, the Nazca Lines could be the remains of an ancient “airport” and given the fact that we’ve seen that there was an inter-planetary civilization years before the creation of man, this isn’t such a ridiculous thought as it first sounds. The pre-Adamites could very well have built such an airport, or spaceport if you will. And at a later stage, people could then have made the lines become visible again, in an attempt to call upon the “gods”.

Yonaguni ruins

In the southern part of Japan, there’s an island called Yonaguni.

This island became known throughout the world in 1985, when ancient ruins were found under water. When they were found, the established authorities in science tried to describe them as natural<sup>12</sup>.

Apparently, there’s a complete city under the surface of the water. But as everyone can see, these ruins are not natural. Many people relate them to a “lost continent”, called Mu or Lemuria, which supposedly was buried under the water 10,000 BC. Some scientists date them

<sup>12</sup> At this point it might be relevant to conclude, that when the established scientific authorities declare something “natural”, this doesn’t have to be an “absolute truth”.

around that time too. It's for certain, that they were under water 4000 years ago, as fossils of that age are found on them. So they are either from before the Great Flood, or they are of pre-Adamitic origin. A Japanese marine geologist, Masaaki Kimura, who deeply researched this matter, says in an interview:

" We found that the ruins are at least 6000 years old. It could go back another 4000 years when we consider the length of time before they sank into the water.<sup>13</sup> "

Mars

On planet Mars are what seems to be unnatural structures. If what the pictures show is in fact what is on the surface of the planet, there are at least two large structures in the form of a humanoid face facing upwards. There are five-sided pyramids and what seem to be the ruins of an ancient city. Some researchers, like David Flynn from the Watcher website<sup>14</sup> and Richard Hoagland from the Enterprise Mission site<sup>15</sup>, see similarities between the structures on Mars and ancient Egyptian pyramids, although they come to different conclusions. Watcher Website has proven to be good resource, although I can't follow the writer(s) of the website in all things. But in a lot of things the website has a thoughtful and plausible meditation. Mr. Flynn describes the Martian monuments as ancient altars of some kind, directed towards the Most High. As there seems to be scriptural evidence for angelic civilizations long before Adam was created, it could very well be that the beings that were part of this civilization did serve the Creator of the Universe in manners similar to the Israelian service of the Most High God. Before they fell, that is. Mr. Hoagland takes a totally different position. Through complex mathemethical reasoning he comes to

<sup>15</sup> Mr. Hoagland Has been a NASA consultant, among many other things. The fact that he has given a speech for a very interested interested United Nations in which he was able to introduce his theories, should say something about his level of credibility in those circles. His repeated use of terms like "new age" and "new world order" in this speech (which was released on video) certainly exposed his spiritual sympathy. Mr. Hoagland's website is located at <http://www.enterprisemission.com> the conclusion that what he calls the Monuments on Mars, are like schoolbooks containing technical information concerning the “art” of dealing with inter-dimensional “energies”.

Cydonia

Take a look at the following pictures taken by an unmanned Space Ship from NASA in the 1970's. The pictures show a certain region on planet Mars called the Cydonia region. Apart from channels, ice and other indications of a past civilization on the planet, there are –what seems like- ruins of artificial structures. And many of them look like ancient monuments we have on our own planet, earth. These pictures of the Cydonia-region on Mars (the monuments of Mars) clearly show a face and pyramids. One big difference with the pyramids on earth, though. The Matians built them with five sides. There's a big five-sided pyramid, a face, and what seems to the ruins of a city. Hoagland found many more on Mars, by the way. And as usual: craters, silent witnesses of a passed judgement you can find on many surfaces of the planets in our Solar System.

Malfunction, error or ET?

Since their discovery by NASA in 1976, several attempts have been made to explain the structures as natural anomalies, or as photographic “mistakes”. Some “mistake”! The chances that these pictures could show what they show as a result of a malfunction in the camera’s are as low as the chances that nature itself would “randomly construct” five-sided pyramids, the face as we see it, as well as some other anomalies which I haven’t even mentioned. More than once since 1976, Unmanned space ships have been sent to Mars, some of which coincidentally lost contact with earth just before they were about to take pictures from Cydonia. Other films show perfect images, except for Cydonia. These seem to have been vanished. Malfunction again? Cydonia region pictures released by NASA since 1976 become more vague as time goes by. Technical advancements? There are even –as far as I know unconfirmed- stories how an earth-sent Space Ship, destined to take pictures from Mars, has been “shot” out of function by a UFO<sup>16</sup>. UFOlogists and ET<sup>17</sup> worshippers obviously see it all as a proof for their claim of current extra-terrestrial civilizations. The fact that these are ruins from ancient times doesn’t seem to bother them at all. Or why, if the stories on the UFO laser beam attack are true, there are no signs of a current civilization in spite of the presence of a UFO. If they would have needed a physical home, given the fact that the Martian artefacts are physical, how come they can function without this physical home in the present time?<sup>18</sup> In spite of all this, over and over you can read how they write <sup>16</sup> UFO = Unidentified Flying Object, also known as flying saucers. The most common explanation is that these UFO’s are ships from intelligent beings “form outer space”. I do not share that conclusion.

<sup>17</sup> ET = Extra Terrestrial, meaning not from planet earth. Most of the time it is assumed that ET’s share the same three-dimensional space with us humans. But in the same time UFOlogists admit that ET’s seem to be able to travel between different dimensions.

<sup>18</sup> Where “Lucifer’s civilization” was located in our physical, three-dimensional realm, his fall made him to lose this position. The Bible also makes mention of the fact, that many “fallen angels” are bound in places in another dimension. Some rituals performed by satanists seem to have the purpose to “unleash” certain beings from these places.

something like: “We can only guess as to why the civilization on Mars vanished with the ‘sudden climate change’, but at least there is some proof of ET’s” .....

Pre-Adamite civilization on earth

When you see the Martian Pyramids, one of the first thoughts probably running through your mind is the existence of the pyramids on our own Planet Earth. The pyramids are everywhere on the planet, but the most famous are the Egyptian and they are built thousands of years ago. Studying these colossal buildings revealed the enormous amount of knowledge the ancients had when it came to physics and mathemethics. An even greater enigma was found in the Sphinx (picture). Some scientists claim that the Sphinx is even built over 10,000 years ago. Recent seismological testing showed, that the monument has suffered from floods dating back thousands of years. If this is true, and if it is also true that Adam was created about 6,000 years ago the only conclusion must be that the structure was built by a pre-Adamite civilization. Mr. Flynn from the Watcher Website, who deeply researched this matter, sees a similarity between the Cydonian face and the Egyptian Sphinx. He claims, that both resemble the head of a Cherub and were constructed by the pre-Adamite angelic civilizations on various planets of our solar system to reflect the Glory of God and to prophetically tell the story of Yesus Kristus, the Divine Saviour. His analysis of the other ancient structures led him to the same conclusion and indeed, there are some striking similarities. It seems like some principals described in the Bible are also utilized in at least some the ancient constructions on Mars. However, some reserves have to be taken as other explanations can be given too on the matter.

Purpose of the artefacts

The theories of David Flynn reveal his expertise on the matter, but I don't necessarily agree with him in all of his conclusions. Please remember, the prophet Ezekiel revealed that satan once was one of the Cherubim and so these monuments and especially the faces could very well be monuments of satan's rebellion against the Most High. According to Richard Hoagland, the Arab word for Sphinx means something like "Father of terror" and when that's an accurate description, the identity of who exactly the Sphinx is symbolizing shouldn't be too difficult. Hoagland studied the Monuments on Mars very intensely with a group of scientists. He claims, that the artefacts are inline with eachother. As said, through very complex mathematical reasoning he comes to the conclusion that the builders of the Martian structures were teaching the basics of some kind of natural law concerning the way multi-dimensional "energies" have influence in our three-dimensional world. Hoagland thinks, that the planets are "controlled" by sources beyond our physical realm and he uses the example of the last planet of our solar system to illustrate it. This planet gives more energy than it takes! Following this line of reasoning, the Martian monuments seem to teach how to get in contact with the realms of the supernatural, the spiritual, and use energies from that realm for various technical and other purposes. The structures also seem to be some kind of map to find various spots on planets where the "gates" to the supernatural are located. Hoagland succeeded in finding various "mysterious buildings" such as Stonehenge on spots where he expected such buildings to be. He even goes as far as to think the Avebury region in England might be an attempt to re-build the Martian monuments right here on earth<sup>19</sup>.

<sup>19</sup> All of this can be found in Hoagland's publications and were also presented to a very interested United Nations. This speech was also released on video. He thinks, that when this "multi-dimensional linking technique" is learned to be applied, an end to famine and war can be released and thus a "new world order" and a "new age" would be a matter of fact.

Costly projects

Whatever you can say about the ancient monuments, great effort is put into constructing these buildings. They were giga-projects and giga-projects always cost a lot of money (or any equivalent thereof). The prophet Ezekiel made known that the pre-Adamite civilizations were filled with violence caused by the economic activity of this “Covering Cherub”. When David Flynn is right in his theory that the Sphinx and the Martian faces resemble a cherub, perhaps they were monuments erected to give praise to this cherub called “Lucifer”.

Panet Rahab

There are also Bible scriptures that seem to indicate, that satan once had his own planet, called “Rahab”. As a result of satan’s fall, this planet received an incredible judgement from the Most High: it was destroyed and turned into the asteroid belt in space, and much debris went to different planet as well, such as Mars, destroying not only the civilizations, but also the atmospheric conditions for sustaining life.

Rahab connected to satan’s fall

The word “Rahab” in the Hebrew language (see left) translates into English as “Storm, Arrogance”. It’s used a number of times in the Bible, the most known is the part on which Joshua conquered Jericho with the help of a local prostitute with this name. You can read it in the 2nd chapter of the book Joshua. But there are also scriptures about Rahab of which the context makes it very clear, that the subject of these particular scriptures is far from being a human being. It’s related to “the heavens”, “the fugitive snake” and judgements of God.

The pillars of heaven tremble and are astonished at his reproof. He divideth the sea with his power, and by his understanding he smiteth through the proud. By his spirit he hath garnished the heavens; his hand hath formed the crooked serpent. (Job 26:11-13, KJV)

Rahab and the fugitive serpent

This is one of those scriptures, which make you seriously wonder what it means. Only when you check the original language, it becomes clear what it actually says. Although the KJV is a reasonable translation, in this particular scripture the English words say a totally different thing than the original. The translators wrote “the proud” where the original text uses the word Rahab. The last sentence says something like God created the crooked serpent. Also this is translated rather strange. It’s because of these translation errors, that people start think to God created satan. But the original scriptures say something different. First, the word that is translated as “has formed” comes from the Hebrew “chuwl”. This word has many meanings, and given the context it would best have been translated with “distressed”, or “twisted”. And last, the word “crooked”. Although this is a good description of the serpent, it’s not a good translation of the word “bariyach”. This Hebrew word means “fugitive”. Let’s see what the translation should read:

The pillars of heaven tremble and are astonished at his reproof. He divideth the sea with his power, and by his understanding he severely wounded Rahab. By his spirit he hath garnished the heavens; his hand distressed the fugitive serpent.

Catastrophe in space

Let me now paraphrase this same scripture. “The pillars of heaven tremble, and are full of amazement of the severity of God’s reproof or rebuke”, says Job to his audience, referring to Genesis 1:2. This means, that there was a catastrophe in space. One of the results on the planet earth was, that the seas were “divided”. One could also say, “instantly disturbed”, by looking at the Hebrew. Job continues: “God’s knowledge concerning the walks and talks of satan made Him to severely damage Rahab. He made the heavens clear again by His Spirit, and He put the fugitive serpent in distress”.

Rahab destroyed, satan on the run

The context of this whole narrative makes it clear, that here we have a mention of the Most High's reaction to satan's sin we've discussed in-depth before. The context also indicates, that this judgement took place in the Solar System with impact on earth as well. While Rahab was destroyed, the serpent became "fugitive". So God destroyed his "head-quarters" so to speak, and caused satan to be on the run.

Rahab in psalms

This part from Job is most definitely not the only scripture teaching about Rahab. The book of Psalms also makes a mention of Rahab's judgement and gives some more detail on the fate of this planet.

O LORD God of hosts, who is a strong LORD like unto thee? or to thy faithfulness round about thee? Thou rulest the raging of the sea: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them. Thou hast broken Rahab in pieces, as one that is slain; thou hast scattered thine enemies with thy strong arm. The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: as for the world and the fulness thereof, thou hast founded them. (Psalm 89:8-11, KJV)

Rahab crushed and the Solar System cleaned

It might be interesting to know, that Psalm 89 as a whole is seen as a teaching. Again, the judgement on Rahab is mentioned in connection to "the heavens". God crushed Rahab into pieces. When you crush a cup, you will see that it breaks down into different pieces. When this happens to a planetary body, the obvious result is, that it's debris will fall on neighbouring planets. When you see a picture of Mars, or the Moon, you will see landscapes filled with craters. Between Mars and Jupiter there's the asteroid-belt. This might therefore be the place where Rahab used to be. On Jupiter, there is a "red spot" (picture). This "red spot" is in fact a mysterious storm. As we remember, Rahab means "arrogance" and "storm". Could it be "Rahab's storm"? It's most certainly interested to know, that the storm is located at one of Hoagland's "magical spots". A storm on Jupiter, craters on various planets, Rahab is surely scattered into millions of pieces! And just like the pieces of Rahab were scattered around in space, the Most High also scattered HIS enemies. Please note, that here there is a specific mention of Jah's enemies. They were not the enemies of His people, but these enemies had a direct conflict with God. The remark, that the heavens and the earth are God's property because He has created them in the first place, is also quite relevant for an overstanding of this teaching. The judgement on Rahab not only had a "cleaning impact" in space, but also on earth. Just like the other quoted scripture from Job 26, Psalm 89 specifically mentions an impact on the seas of the earth. It seems like this is a hint towards Genesis 1:2.

Rahab connected to ancient judgement of God

The prophet of old, IsaJah has also written down some words concerning Rahab, and connects the planet with the judgement on satan, and puts it all back to ancient times on the cosmic time-calendar. Just read how the prophet addresses the Most High:

Awake, awake, put on strength, O arm of the LORD; awake, as in the ancient days, in the generations of old. Art thou not it that hath cut Rahab, and wounded the dragon?
(IsaJah 51:9 KJV)

Exemplary judgement

First IsaJah starts to refer to what is translated as "the ancient days". Days, by the way, do not necessarily mean literally 24-hour periods here. The prophet says, that in the ancient period, the Most High has shown His Power in an extraordinary way. "Generations of old” in the original language refers to the same thing. Generations referring to periods, the word “old” is translated from “owlam” and is specifically pointing out to “the ancient past”. There is no doubt, what the prophet is saying. He is putting Rahab in the ancient past, together with the judgement placed on the dragon, who we know is satan. The word the translators used for “wounding”, as in “wounded the dragon” is the word “chalal”. This word can be translated as wounded, but also with “to profane”. This is significant, because it indicates that the dragon or serpent once was perfect, but he committed the sin to want to become above the Most High. This made him profane, he lost his honour.

Reptilian connection

The Bible is not the only source on ancient civilizations of non-human beings roaming the earth and space. A study of ancient mythology and religions point out to the same thing. The earliest civilizations all have their stories about them. The Zulu’s in southern Africa for example believe, that there used to be a reptilian race on earth that was judged by the Most High for “practicing bad magic”. Satan is also reptilian, because he is referred to as the serpent or the snake. The inhabitants of earth during his rule in ancient times before Adam might therefore also be reptilians<sup>20</sup>. Reptilian themes and figures are a constantly returning theme in connection with the ancient so-called “gods” of which we will read in following chapters. But God has destroyed their physical bodies, and made it impossible for them to permanently stay in this three-dimensional world we live in.

Light!

This concludes the story how “lucifer” became satan when he rebelled against the Most High. He fell from his position, his planet Rahab exploded and turned into the asteroid-belt while also <sup>20</sup> The Bible, ancient mythology and archaeology all seem to indicate that there was an inter-planetary pre-Adamite civilization. It could be, that on the various planets there were also various species. The ancient stories do not only speak on the subject of reptilians, but also about a more humanoid race. But in most material that I have researched, the reptilians seem to be the highest-ranking figures in the satanic hierarchy.

---

destroying the atmospheres of Mars and Earth and the civilizations built on it. Through this judgement the earth became wasted and empty until Jah said: "LET THERE BE LIGHT!" And there was light.
